

A man with glasses and a mustache, wearing a blue button-down shirt, stands at a wooden podium. He is speaking into a microphone and looking down at papers on the podium.

A group of about seven people are seated at a long table covered with a red cloth. They are listening to the speaker. The table has glasses of water and some papers on it. The background shows a room with large windows and a speaker mounted on the wall.